No Depression Ahead For U.S., Ford Maintains

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has assured Americans the nation's economy is not headed for a depression, despite steep inflation and sagging industrial production.

He promised at his news conference Monday night new measures "to make sure that our economy improves in the months ahead," but he did not outline them.

"Let me say very strongly that the United States is not going to have a depression," Ford asserted. The overall economy is strong and employment remains high, he said.

"We do have the problems of inflation. We do have related problems and we're going to come up with some answers that I hope will solve these problems," Ford said.

"We are going to work to make sure that our economy improves in the months ahead," he added.

Statistics support the view that the United States is nowhere near a depression now.

Economists regard a depression as a period of low economic activity marked by mass unemployment, deflation, a decreasing use of resources and a low level of investment.

In 1933, the worst of the depression years, there were 14 million Americans out of work, about 25 per cent of the labor force.

By contrast, there were 4.9 million Americans unable to find jobs last month, representing 5.4 per cent of the labor force.

While industrial production is off this year, it still is only 1.8 per cent below the peak output in November of last year. And the economy shows no hint of deflation, a condition of falling prices.

Nevertheless, the nation's top labor leaders warned Ford last week that the government's current anti-inflation policies of tight credit and restrained federal spending could plunge the country into a deep recession.

But administration economic advisers have maintained these policies are necessary to control inflation over the long-run, even if they produce short-term difficulties.

Ford Defends Pardon

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford says Richard M. Nixon's acceptance of a pardon could be construed as an admission of guilt, but Ford's unyielding defense of the clemency has failed to still criticism of his decision.

Ford also said Monday night there were no secret reasons for the pardon and no secret deals with Nixon.

And he disclosed he is moving to allay concern among Watergate prosecutors about safeguarding Nixon tapes as potential evidence.

He said White House aides are negotiating with Watergate Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski's staff to remove concerns about preserving for possible courtroom use the tape recordings and presidential documents deemed to be Nixon's property.

Responding to a barrage of pardon-related questions at his second broadcast news conference, Ford declared, "I am absolutely convinced ... I made the right decision in an effort, an honest, conscientious effort, to end the (Watergate) divisions and the turmoil in the United States."

Ford maintained that the former president had been "shamed and disgraced" by his resignation.

The President also said he had no inside information on Nixon's health at the time of the pardon, and although he was aware of published reports Nixon was ailing, "I was more anxious to heal the nation."

A number of congressional Democrats said they were not satisfied by Ford's defense of the pardon.

"Tonight, I thought there might be some light," said Rep. Jerome Waldie, D-Calif., a member of the House Judiciary Committee that recommended Nixon's impeachment, "but there was none."

Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., of the Judiciary Committee said it would have been better had Ford "pursued the judicial process to show that all are treated equally under the law."

But Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., said Ford's explanation was "pretty straightforward and will make an impression on a lot of people who didn't agree with the pardon."

Reviewing his decision to pardon the former President, Ford went further than ever before in suggesting Nixon was guilty of impeachable offenses if not criminal misconduct. He said the unanimous Judiciary Committee vote for impeachment was "very persuasive evidence" and at another point declared, in response to a question, "the acceptance of a pardon, I think can be construed by many, if not all, as an admission of guilt."

If the pardon question dominated the 30-minute news conference, the topic of CIA intervention in the affairs of other countries seemed certain to stir international controversy.

Asked about CIA action against the since-overthrown Marxist government of Chile, Ford said the United States did act "to help and assist the preservation of opposition newspapers and electronic media and to preserve opposition political parties." He went on:

"I think this is in the best interests of the people of Chile, and certainly in our best interests."

In any case, he said he was "informed reliably that Communist nations spend vastly more money than we do for the same kind of purposes." And he said, "our government had no involvement whatsoever" in the coup that toppled the Chilean regime.

On other topics, Ford said: "The United States is not going to have a depression. The over-all economy of the United States is strong. Employment is still high. We do have the problem of inflation," which he said he hoped would be solved.

Within the next few days, presumably when he addresses the United Nations General Assembly in New York on Wednesday, he hopes to announce "a very major decision" involving humanitarian food aid to other countries.

"A person's income tax return is a very precious thing to that individual and, therefore, I am about to issue an

Gas Allocation Reduced For Large Volume Industrial Customers

Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., has notified 506 large-volume industrial customers throughout Ohio that their allocation of gas will be reduced by 20 per cent monthly, beginning November 1, according to Calvin Danford, Circleville manager for the gas company.

The gas allocation reduction for large volume industrial consumers should have a minimal effect on the local economy according to Calvin Danford, manager of the Circleville office of Columbia Gas.

Most of the industries affected by the reduced allocation have alternative fuel supplies if needed according to Danford. Du Pont, GE and RCA are the major consumers. The allocation does not affect Container Corporation of America, USS Chemical, Owens-Illinois or PPG.

Danford said the reduction to large-volume customers is necessary because of a recently projected supply deficiency on the part of its wholesale supplier, Columbia Gas Transmission Corp., for the five-month winter period beginning November 1.

"This reduction to our industrial customers is the only way the company can be certain that sufficient gas will be available during the coming winter months to provide residential customers with gas for home heating," he said.

The company's letter to the industries facing curtailment said: "Any change in this level of curtailment will depend upon the temperatures experienced in our service area, continued conservation efforts by all of our customers and any further changes in our gas supply. We urge that you immediately plan your operations based on these reduced volumes of natural gas."

The urgency for conservation by all customers cannot be stressed enough, Danford said.

"Our customers have responded well. Their continued cooperation will make gas available for industrial users and thus help protect the jobs of those who work in the affected industries," Danford said.

"The quickest way we know of to solve the problem that is facing us and our industrial customers is for Congress to deregulate the wellhead price of new natural gas," he said.

U.S. Action In Chile Raises Ethical Questions

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has confirmed that the CIA acted against former Chilean President Salvador Allende as a Senate committee considers whether to pursue charges it was misled about those activities.

A Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee staff report recommends action against former CIA Director Richard M. Helms and three other officials for sworn testimony minimizing the CIA activity, congressional sources say. The report was scheduled for consideration by the full committee today.

There were conflicting accounts whether the report recommends perjury investigations, contempt of Congress charges or some combination of the two.

The report also was said to be critical of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger for testifying there was no U.S. involvement in the bloody coup in which Allende died last year, but saying nothing about the previous CIA activity.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, chairman of the subcommittee for which the report was prepared, refused to give details but said the full committee would take up both the propriety of the CIA activities and officials' truthfulness about them.

"Sworn testimony before my subcommittee was at variance with what has been disclosed," Church said in a telephone interview Monday night.

"We now learn there is no difference between American policy and Soviet policy in subverting foreign governments," he said. "I had always thought the United States stood for different principles."

Ford said at his news conference Monday night there is no doubt in his mind that there was no U.S. involvement in Chile's coup. But he confirmed that the CIA supported Allende's opposition in the 1970 elections.

"It is a recognized fact that historically, as well as presently, such actions are taken in the best interest of the countries involved," the President said.

Ford said he would not judge whether such activity is permitted by international law.

He said he was reliably informed that Communist countries "spend vastly more money than we do for the same kind of purposes."

Ford said the CIA activity was in response to what he said was an effort by Allende, a Marxist, "to destroy opposition news media, both the writing press as well as the electronic press, and to destroy opposition political parties."

"The effort that was made in this case," Ford said, "was to help and assist the preservation of opposition newspapers and electronic media and to preserve opposition political parties."

"I think this is in the best interests of the people in Chile, and certainly in our best interests," Ford said.

Ford said he will meet with congressional committees on whether they want any changes so that Congress as well as the President are fully informed and included in reviewing such covert operations.

Cheap Items, Chicken Feed No Longer One And Same

CENTRALIA, Ill. (AP) — Next time you're about to compare something inexpensive with chicken feed, bite your tongue.

Poultry feed prices have come home to roost, and the people who gather eggs for their refrigerator are squawking about it.

A grower with a flock of laying hens pays $9.50 for a 100-pound sack of feed, which cost about half that two years ago.

While that may not sound like much, consider that chicken farms with 15,000 to 30,000 hens are common, and one rancher here is feeding 55,000 chickens daily.

It takes about 4.5 pounds of feed — corn, soybean, wheat and alfalfa meal fortified with vitamins — to produce a dozen eggs. A hen will produce about 20 dozen eggs over her 15 most productive months. At the same time she will consume nearly 100 pounds of feed.

The $9.00 or so that the farmer spent on feed for a single hen is more than he paid for her in the first place. Late this summer, a pullet sold for about $2.25. Eighteen months ago, a pullet brought about $1.75. Hatcheries blame the increase on the price of feed.

A dozen large eggs sold in Southern Illinois markets this September at about 52 cents. That's a $10.40 return on an investment of $11.25 and you haven't paid the help yet or repaired the coops. Medium eggs? Forty-five cents.

Feed producers say the problem is rising grain prices.

A spokesman for the Ralston Purina Co. of St. Louis, Mo., which sells more feed than any other company in the United States, says:

"The big thing this year is the increased price of corn. Corn now costs more than the protein ingredients — soybeans and so forth. The price has just about doubled in two years. Two years ago, a ton of laying rations was $87. This year it's $168 — wholesale. That's an industrywide, average figure."

ROUNDTOWN

JOHN Fissell, 565 Lawnwood Court, is one of the patrol judges at the Grand Circuit Races being held at the Delaware County Fair this week. He will be at his post Thursday for the 29th running of the Little Brown Jug racing classic. This is his seventh year as a patrol judge there.

CIRCLEVILLE'S mayor, Frank Barnhill, has signed a proclamation urging all citizens to observe the week, Sept. 17-23 as Constitution Week. Today marks the 187th anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution of the United States of America by the Constitutional Convention. By Proclamation of the President of the United States and by Act of Congress, the week annually is observed as Constitution Week.

Mrs. Sterling Poling, Pickaway Plains Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution Constitution Week chairman, urges all citizens to fly the flag of the United States of America daily during this week especially, read and study the Constitution and to pledge themselves to defend and protect this document which guarantees the freedoms of religion, press, speech and the rights to petition and assembly.

The Constitution of the United States of America has stood the test of time since it is the oldest Constitution still in active use in the world. This basic document of our United States Government has also served as a model for other freedom seeking governments.

Branch Voter Registration Drive Continues In County

Branch registration in Pickaway County has been helpful, for the most part, to potential voters according to figures released by the Board of Elections after the first week of the drive.

It has cost about $150 to register 44 new voters and complete 19 other transactions in four county villages since the area registration drive began last Tuesday.

Tarlton was the first village visited by a traveling team of board of elections' personnel Tuesday and 19 voters completed various transactions. Cost was $2.46 a person based on mileage fees and salaries of the employees.

Eighteen new voters were registered in Darbyville on Wednesday at a cost of $2.30 per voter, a turnout that pleased board workers.

But on Thursday, only two people visited the elections station in Williamsport. Cost was about $15 a person.

In Commercial Point Monday, 24 persons were served by Board of Elections personnel.

The registration drive, authorized by the board July 2, is for new voters, those who have changed their addresses, and those who have changed their names.

Hours are from noon until 8 p.m. Schedule of remaining visits includes Ashville, today, South Bloomfield Thursday; Orient, Monday, Sept. 23; New Holland, Wednesday, Sept. 25; and Derby, Monday, Sept. 30.

Normally, registration of new voters is accomplished in the Board of Elections office in the basement of the Pickaway County Courthouse.

Cost is less prohibitive there, according to Clerk Nancy Ayers, because employees are in the office from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily working on other matters. It takes very little time to register, therefore additional employees are not needed.

There are 5,011 people in Circleville registered to vote and 10,457 in the remainder of the county.

Area registration is not new to the county as precincts in Ashville, Derby, Williamsport, New Holland, and Tarlton were visited Sept. 9, 1964, in a drive.

Cost of the operation was about $140. There were no totals available on the actual number of persons registered on that day, but 1,185 persons were registered by the board of elections from May, 1964, until the close of registration.

Requests by residents for area registration were turned down by the board of elections in 1962 and in 1972.

Voter registration was inaugurated in Pickaway County in 1960. By Sept. 28, 1960, 13,433 citizens had registered to vote at a cost to the county of $4,322, or about 32 cents per registered voter.

Persons wishing to vote in the November election may register with the branch team or visit the board of elections office from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily.

Special hours will be observed as the Oct. 7th deadline draws near.

On Friday, Oct. 4, the board will be open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.; on Saturday, Oct. 5, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon; and on Monday, Aug. 7, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

REGISTRATION DEADLINE—Nancy Ayers, clerk of the Pickaway County Board of Elections, adds the final name to the bulletin board near the entrance to her office.

It explains registration deadline and has the name of persons associated with the board in the center of the flowers.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market rolled up a sharp gain today on the strength of hopes for a letup in tight-money pressures.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 15.49 at 655.29, and gainers held a lopsided 5-to-1 advantage over losers on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers noted that such short-term money market investments as Treasury bills had shown a sharp drop in yields in the past couple of days. And in Montreal today, David Rockefeller, chairman of New York's Chase Manhattan Corp., said banks' prime lending rate could come down from its present 12 per cent level to as low as 10 per cent by year-end if the trend continues.

Honesty Mining was the most-active NYSE issue, down 4 1/4 at 38 1/4 as gold stocks declined broadly, following a drop in bullion prices in European markets.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index was up .66 to 63.81.

The NYSE's noon composite index of some 1,500 common stocks was up .80 at 35.43.

executive order that makes it even more restrictive as to how those returns can be handled" within government.

—The President has "several people in mind" to replace resigning staff chief Alexander M. Haig Jr., who is becoming military commander of NATO, and hopes to name a new press secretary to replace J.F. terHorst, who quit in protest against the Nixon pardon, "in a relatively short period of time."

Ford said he is getting health reports on Nixon from day to day, but "I don't think I am at liberty to give any information from those reports I have received."

The New York Times, quoting a long-time friend of Nixon and member of his personal staff, reported in today's editions that Haig was responsible for persuading Ford to grant the pardon, warning of "a possible personal and national tragedy" that might stem from the former chief executive's complete physical and mental breakdown.

Asked about his statement at his confirmation hearings as vice president that the American people would not stand for him to pardon his predecessor, Ford responded:

"I did not say I wouldn't. I simply said that under the way the question was phrased, the American people would object."

The President acknowledged that, "the decision has created more antagonism than I anticipated" but added, "I am still convinced, despite the public reaction so far, that the decision I made was the right one."

Hurricane Fifi Builds In Atlantic

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Fifi has become the season's third hurricane with sustained winds of 75 miles per hour, forecasters at the National Hurricane Center said today.

Conditions favor strengthening during the next 24 hours and Fifi is expected to become a dangerous hurricane sometime Wednesday, the Hurricane Center said.

Fifi has slowed to a forward speed of 10 m.p.h. while rapidly increasing to minimal hurricane strength, forecasters said. It was earlier predicted that Fifi would remain a tropical storm until tonight.

At 6 a.m. EDT, the hurricane was centered about 275 miles east of the Swan Islands in the Caribbean.

The projected track of the hurricane should take it a short distance north of Swan Island, forecasters said. However they warned a slightly more southerly track could bring Fifi's eye south of the island.

Gale-force winds extend 100 miles to the north of Fifi's center and 50 miles to the south, forecasters said.

Most of the heavy rain was located over water, the Hurricane Center said, but warned that locally heavy showers could bring flooding to Jamaica, the Cayman Islands and eastern Cuba.

The first hurricane of the season, Becky, swirled harmlessly into the open Atlantic near the end of August. Last week Hurricane Carmen smashed into the Louisiana Gulf Coast before dying over Texas.

Kanawha River Pollution Hit

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — A moratorium should be declared on the recreational use of the Kanawha River because of potential water pollution problems, Campaign Clean Water, a group affiliated with Ralph Nader, recommended Monday.

The group charged that possibly toxic synthetic organic chemicals discharged by area industries could be making their way into the Ohio River. In the report, the group also urged the state Water Resources Board to reclassify the river as unsafe for fishing and swimming.

"Previous clean-up efforts, although successful in terms of the reduction of the gross pollution load, have almost totally ignored the more subtle effects of synthetic organic contamination" from the plants, said David Grubb, state coordinator of the campaign.

U.N. Meet Opens; 111 Items Eyed

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United Nations General Assembly opens its 29th annual session today with a record number of problems facing a record number of member nations.

The first day's agenda included the admission of three new nations: Bangladesh, formerly East Pakistan; Grenada, a former British island colony in the Caribbean, and Guinea-Bissau, the first of Portugal's African colonies to get independence.

Their admission brings the total membership in the world organization to 138 nations. It started with 51 in 1945.

President Ford planned to appear before the assembly on Wednesday for the first major foreign policy speech of his administration. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim told a news conference Monday that "the fact that the President is coming here personally ... is the best proof of his positive attitude toward our organization."

Waldheim said that at his meeting with Ford in Washington last week, the President "expressed to me his desire to cooperate fully with the United Nations, to give us full support."

A record 111 items are on the agenda for the three-month assembly session. Many of them are the result of the Arab-Israeli conflict, the energy crisis, the arms race, worldwide inflation and the widening gap between rich and poor nations.

Credit Income Tax • With Aiding Schools

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Educational funds provided by the state income tax were credited by the Ohio superintendent of public instruction with helping schools fight off the worst effects of inflation.

"The income tax has been a god-send," Superintendent Martin W. Essex said Tuesday in a review of the opening of the 1974-75 school year. "Otherwise the schools would be in a state of shambles."

But former Gov. James A. Rhodes, in a statement issued by his campaign headquarters, said requests for school operating levies on the November ballot may set a new record.

"The present governor continues to maintain that there are no financial problems in the schools because of his income tax," said Rhodes, who is challenging Gov. John J. Gilligan in the November elections.

Rhodes said that property owners in nearly half of Ohio's school districts will have tax levies on the ballot this fall.

Essex said that the Western Local District in Pike County would require a 70.2 mills of local property to replace income tax funds, while Cleveland would need more than 12 additional mills.

Most Of Nation Has Clear Skies

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Showers continued in Texas today, adding to already swollen rivers.

But clear skies covered most of the nation.

Flash flood watches were out for Waco, Tex., where more than two inches of rain fell in a six-hour period.

Showers also fell on New Mexico, the Mississippi Valley and Great Lakes area. Cool temperatures brought fog to parts of the Midwest.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 32 at Houlton, Maine, to 85 at Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

We don't like the increases in the price of anything any more than you do. It's painful and unwanted, whether it's a pound of sugar or a kilowatt hour of electricity.

To us our recent rate increase is welcome . . . it helps . . . but it doesn't solve all of our problems. The rate increase only covers the cost of our facilities through June, 1972. As of June, 1974, we have spent $145,000,000 for construction and the present increase doesn't cover these costs.

When expenses out-pace income . . . you have to cut the expenses. So even with the increase in rates, it is still necessary to defer construction of some of our planned generating facilities. This will save $224,000,000 in construction expenditures through 1978. But it also postpones the in-service dates of four generating units which are so vital to serve you and the 1,250,000 people who live and work in central and southern Ohio.

Even with the increase in electric rates, electricity is still a good buy when compared to other items in the family budget. . . . If you don't think so . . . look around.

Autumn Is Approaching

Summer is again slipping into the embrace of autumn, as it annually does when September is rapidly running its course. Most Americans hail autumn for what a poet once called it, "The Sabbath of the year." Its air is tonic, its scenery majestic, its philosophy that of reward for effort.

The melancholy theme of autumn, voiced by a philosopher in another century, figuratively presents "the flowers fading like our hopes, the leaves falling like our years, the light diminishing like our intelligence, the sun growing colder like our affections—all bearing secret relations to our destinies."

Such dour rumination neglects the essential parallel. The process of natural decay is inherent in all life. As colorful plant life bows and surrenders when its fruit is ripe, only to be renewed in another season, so man lives, strives, dies and strives again within the cycles of eternity.

Autumn is a shift of life from one sphere to another, as the birds change climates. While that process is on, it offers the grandest panorama in the year's round.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, Sept. 17, the 260th day of 1974. There are 105 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1787, the Constitution of the United States was completed and signed by a majority of delegates attending the Constitutional Convention in Philadelphia.

On this date — In 1665, a bubonic plague broke out in London.

In 1939, the debut of the radio program, "Major Bowes' Amateur Hour," started a trend toward talent contests in American radio programming.

In 1939, the Soviet Union invaded Poland in World War II.

In 1967, U.S. Air Force jets attacked a highway bridge in North Vietnam only seven miles from the China border.

In 1970, open warfare broke out in Jordan between King Hussein's army and Palestinian guerrillas.

Ten years ago: The United States disclosed development of two weapons systems capable of intercepting and destroying armed satellites circling the earth in space.

Five years ago: Preparations were being made to withdraw 35,000 more American troops from South Vietnam before the end of the year.

One year ago: Sextuplets were born to a 34-year-old Lakewood, Colo., woman who had been taking fertility drugs.

Today's birthdays: Ballet choreographer and director Frederick Ashton is 68. General Motors President Edward Cole is 65.

Thought for today: Public sentiment is everything. With public sentiment, nothing can fail; without it, nothing can succeed — President Abraham Lincoln, 1809-1865.

"Something wrong?"

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I knew that my wife was an alcoholic when I married her. I had hoped that I, who gave up drinking four years ago, could reform her, too. I have been unsuccessful.

She is 29 and wants to have a family. Will this be dangerous to her?

Mr. A. B., Ill.

Dear Mr. B.:

The danger of pregnancy to your wife is minimal as compared to those that her child would face after it is born.

A well-authenticated study was recently presented by Dr. Kenneth L. Jones, of the University of Washington School of Medicine, on this subject.

Dr. Jones studied a large group of female alcoholics and came to the conclusion that "children of alcoholic mothers fail to thrive physically and mentally."

In fact, the outlook for children born to chronic alcoholic women is so poor that the suggestion is made for the termination of pregnancy in some instances.

Dr. Jones was careful to note that these birth defects and poor development do not necessarily apply to children born to "heavy social drinkers." There is a distinct difference between the so-called "heavy social drinker" and an "alcoholic."

Before embarking on a family project your wife should be completely studied from the point of view of chronic liver disease, in order to be sure that the child does not carry for the rest of his life such a serious birth defect.

Congenital heart defects, growth deficiencies and joint disorders are all included in the fetal alcohol syndrome. No child should start out in life with handicaps like these.

It would also be extremely wise for you to enlist the help of physicians, Alcoholics Anonymous and a psychiatrist to try to break the cycle of alcoholism in your wife.

It is virtually impossible for you to do it alone, as you have already found. The fact that you were able to break your drinking pattern does not give you the expertise to handle this complex problem alone.

When and if your wife is freed from the bondage of alcoholism and when her health has been restored you can then, with medical advice, give consideration to the possibility of starting a family.

Milk Support Bid Reception Cool

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration is giving a cool shoulder to a delegation of National Farmers Union dairy producers here this week to seek higher government milk price supports.

About 100 dairy farmers plan to meet today with congressional members and later at the Agriculture Department to state their case for higher supports.

But an NFU spokesman said an appointment Wednesday at the White House with an official of the President's Domestic Council was cancelled. And at USDA a spokesman said it was not certain whether Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz would meet with the farmers.

"It's a question whether the secretary will be able to meet with them," Steven Laine, newly designated director of public affairs for USDA, told a reporter on Monday. Asked if Butz' schedule conflicted with the meeting, Laine with, "I assume so."

The visit by dairy farmers was announced Sept. 8 by Tony Dechant, NFU president, who said the group would seek a meeting "with President Ford or his personal representative" to seek emergency action, including a boost in government milk price supports to the maximum level set by law. Butz told a news conference in Chicago last Friday that he had no plan to increase milk price supports despite pressure from many farm belt members of Congress, including Rep. W. R. Poage, D-Tex., chairman of the House Agriculture Committee.

The Farmers Union says that unless government supports are raised from the current level of 80 per cent of parity — the minimum allowed by law — to 90 per cent, rising production costs will force many more farmers out of business and lead to milk shortages.

One NFU official said Monday night that considering Butz' attitude about milk supports, it probably would not do any good to meet with him anyway.

The department has predicted U.S. milk output will decline this year by about 1.5 per cent, following an even larger reduction in 1973. That would put 1974 milk production at around 113.9 billion pounds, the lowest level since 1948.

But the farmers union says this year's milk output is likely to decline even more because of liquidations of cow herds. The main factor is the general cost of production, including much higher feed costs.

The Agriculture Department last week said there were 4,000 fewer head of dairy cows on farms during August than in July. The August cow inventory was 11,135,000 head, down more than 200,000 cows or about 2 per cent from the same month last year.

Pardons For The Course

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — While we're at it, let's have some more retroactive Presidential pardons.

A good case could be made for Maj. John Andre, the charismatic British spy who was hanged at Gen. George Washington's Headquarters for negotiating with Gen. Benedict Arnold for the surrender of West Point. Any good lawyer could make the point in court today that Andre didn't do anything that last year's West Point football team didn't do worse.

Then there's Dr. Samuel Alexander Mudd, the Maryland physician (1833-1883) who set John Wilkes Booth's broken left leg after the assassination of Abraham Lincoln, April 14, 1865, at Ford's (no relation Theater in Washington. If Dr. Mudd had refused to perform that act of mercy, when Booth rode up to his house on the getaway horse, he would have violated his hippocratic oath. But he was put on trial as an accomplice (he had previously displayed sympathy for the Confederate cause) and sentenced to life imprisonment in bleak Fort Jefferson, in the Dry Tortugas, Florida. President Andrew Johnson pardoned Mudd in 1869 (a year after Johnson beat impeachment charges in the Senate by one vote), but Mudd lived the rest of his life branded as a figure of doom in the American lexicon, "your name is Mudd." He could sue the government for false imprisonment, like, say, Howard Hunt.

And what about the Rosenbergs: They were electrocuted for passing bits of atomic information to the Russians, an ally. Today we happily provide nuclear know-how to 50 nations of the world, friends and foes.

I wish Dr. Billy Graham lots of luck, now that he will have no more run of the White House than Bebe Rebozo, Fr. John J. McLaughlin, S.J., and Rabbi Baruch Korff.

However, something I wish Dr. Billy would do, before that glorious judgment day when he becomes one with Dr. Billy Sunday, Dr. Robert Ingersoll, and Dr. Aimee Semple McPherson, is hire a new advertising director. Graham spends a ton of money each week advertising his crusades. The ads always show everybody in the cast of the ecclesiastical TV show, including B.G., laughing insanely.

The advertised sermons by Dr. Billy have recently been listed as "The Origin of Sin," "The Burning Bush," and "How to Have a Successful Home." Fine. But the ads suggest the beating of drums for a Bob Hope special, not an invitation to hit that old Sawdust Trail.

My clairvoyant Air Force pal, who predicted here ten days ago that Evel Knievel's Snake River Canyon leap was as big a hoax as Clifford Irving's exclusive life of Howard Hughes, is Maj. Jim Sparks, USAF (Ret.). Jim said Evel's lunatic steam-bike would be equipped with the latest Air Force parachute, and that Evel would pull the rip cord at the earliest opportunity and float down without trouble.

Happened just that way. Sparks is an author, inventor, interpreter for various NASA administrators, and first-class authority on military and commercial aircraft of all types. He'd like to interest his friend, former Astronaut Gordon Cooper, in leaping Snake River Canyon on a Kiddie-Kar. He's sure Gordie could do it.

And so, in all probability, is Gordie. A suggestion to Knievel the Evel. If you're so brave, why don't you try a cycle through Central Park some night?

A small peevish or so: Don Rickles makes Herod a fellow I'd like to meet.

What was Chris Evert crying for after losing to Evonne Goolagong after 56 straight? Didn't somebody tell her she had just equalled Joe DiMaggio's record?

The biggest break the New York Yankees have gotten this year is the decision by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn to order owner George Steinbrenner to keep his mitts off the club until the end of the season. Steinbrenner was recently convicted of using his shipbuilding company's money to help reelect Nixon.

Kuhn's decision means that Steinbrenner cannot second-guess his general manager, Gabe Paul, or fielder manager, Bill Virdon, or the players. That's tough on Steinbrenner, but he can take some comfort from the fact that he's a part of this era's pardons and cop-outs. If old Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis was still around, Steinbrenner would be running a Girls' Little League team. On Guam.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Seldom do the nation's power utilities elicit much sympathy from the public. Aren't they the moneyhungry monsters you feel are always raising rates? Aren't they the polluters of air and water?

Experience indicates that the utilities never have been able to deal effectively with those criticisms, one of the reasons being that the public isn't inclined to be patient with big, profitable, comfortable corporations.

Those attributes, however, once endeared the utilities to the financial community. Yes, they were profitable, and they had an assured market, and they paid regular dividends. That made them prime investments.

But now, to their distress, the utilities are losing their financial friends. And, with almost nowhere to turn, they may seek to make friends with the federal government in Washington.

The difficulties have more than one origin. Some critics blame the ecologists who delayed plant construction. Others criticize the regulators. Some point to complacent management. The rise in the cost of oil is part of the problem. So is the rise in borrowing costs.

When all these factors were either nonexistent or considerably smaller, shares of utilities were among the bluest of the blue chips. They were the finest offerings in the financial community. They attracted big investors. Institutions such as mutual and pension funds liked them. So did the big bank trusts and the insurance companies and the widows and pensioners, who could be assured of dividends. Uninterrupted dividends was the trademark of utilities.

The problems mounted during the past decade. All over the nation utilities found themselves on the defensive from environmentalists who forced delays in new plants so as to protect nature.

At the same time the demand for electricity was soaring, which meant those new plants were needed as never before. Management wasn't able to handle the situation — some claim it was unmanageable. Brownouts and blackouts ensued.

Again for ecological reasons, many utilities were forced to switch to cleaner coal or to other fuels, which left them vulnerable when oil became scarcer and prices higher.

The compounding of problems had already left many utilities dazed when what many believe could be the coup de grace was administered by rising interest rates and a falling stock market.

By nature, utilities are big borrowers, their capital expenditures for plant and equipment being enormous. In times past they have almost always been welcome in the credit markets because of their stability.

But now, with high interest rates pressing down on their profits, the conservative investors who typically lent money to the utilities had reason to worry. One after another "offering" of bonds and debentures attracted fewer takers than anticipated.

Quarantine End Seen By Davis

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State mental health director William Davis said Monday that a quarantine of some 20 patients exposed to hepatitis at the Columbus State Institute for the mentally retarded is expected to be lifted soon.

Davis said lifting the quarantine completely is preferable to releasing the patients on a case-by-case basis. "Probably the worst thing in the world you can do for a retarded child is isolate him entirely," Davis said.

Three cases of the disease have been diagnosed so far. One hepatitis patient died last week, but Davis said the person also suffered from hypertension and heart problems, which contributed to the death.

Teacher Found Shot To Death

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Police reported that James Edwards of Maumee, a 29-year-old high school teacher, was found bound and shot to death in his home Monday.

Authorities said that Edwards' body was discovered after officials at St. John High School became concerned when he failed to appear for classes.

When Edwards could not be reached by phone, another teacher was sent to his home in Maumee, where he found the body.

Edwards had been an English teacher at the school since 1967.

Seeking to move the Circleville park fund project to a climax in the near future, Frank A. Lynch, chairman of the Elks Lodge committee that is sponsoring the campaign, called all solicitors to meet at the New American Hotel Coffee Shop. The campaign's goal was $10,000 which was expected to be sufficient to purchase land in the north end of the city and to finance the city's share of the WPA project to improve the grounds.

Pickaway County's WPA projects, which were suspended for a week when men were needed to assist with farm labor, were to be resumed. More than 200 men were "loaned" by WPA to rural residents who had corn cutting and many other duties to perform. Projects suspended included the Circleville sidewalk job and several road drainage and reconstruction jobs.

"Black Jack," an 11-year-old dog belonging to Larkie Watts of Columbus, won the major prizes in the coon dog trials at Dewey Park.

Robert Friece, ace of Circleville's golfers, won the class A championships of the Pickaway Country Club when he defeated Fred Sibrel of Chillicothe 13 up with 11 to play in a 36-hole match.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

"Yes, I did beat up my wife," acknowledged the repentant husband in court, "but I was drunk at the time. The whiskey loosened my inhibitions, so I just wasn't myself."

But the court threw out this defense and found the defendant guilty of assault and battery. The court said: "Although the use of intoxicating liquors does to some extent blind the reason and exasperate the passions, yet, as a man voluntarily brings it upon himself, he cannot use it as an excuse for crime."

This is a widely accepted rule of law, rejecting intoxication as an across-the-board defense against criminal charges. Nor is it an excuse that the defendant drank to "nerve" himself for a deed he would not have done if sober.

As another court put it: "All that the crafty criminal would require for a well-planned murder would be a revolver in one hand to commit the offense and a quart of liquor in the other to build his defense."

Nevertheless, most courts will take intoxication into account if the crime is one that requires a specific intent—to see if that intent was really there. Consider this case:

A man was accused of stealing an automobile. He had sat down drunk in the parked car of an acquaintance, noticed the keys in the ignition, and commenced to drive home.

There was no doubt that he had taken the car without permission. But the court said he could not be convicted of theft if he had been too drunk to have any notion of stealing it.

Furthermore, intoxication may be a good defense if it was not voluntary.

Suppose, for example, that a man committed a crime after innocently imbibing a "Mickey Finn." If the drink was potent enough to put him out of control, he could not be found guilty. In these circumstances, says the law, neither the intoxication nor the crime itself was truly his own act.

Lima State Evaluation Under Way

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — Re-evaluation teams will begin interviewing each of Lima State Hospital's nearly 800 patients next Monday to see if they should be there.

The Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation said at least three teams — each having a psychiatrist, a psychologist and a social worker — would be on the job. There is the possibility of a fourth team, spokesman William Malloy said.

"A flock of names had been proposed," he said. "We don't expect all of them will fly but we're sure enough will to get us started."

U.S. District Judge Nicholas J. Walinski ordered the re-evaluation on the basis of depositions and other evidence taken in a class action lawsuit on behalf of 15 patients.

Another opinion concerning the constitutional rights of patients in Lima State and other hospitals is expected later, as a result of a one-week trial held in August.

Train-Bus Combination Initiated

WASHINGTON (AP)—Five Ohio Cities — Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Lima and Toledo — are included in a combined Amtrak-Greyhound venture described as the start of a nationwide intermodal transportation system.

Initiated Monday, the system allows Amtrak to sell tickets combining train and bus travel over eight routes to points not directly served by the railway.

Under the arrangement, for example, a passenger wanting to travel to Lima, which is not served by Amtrak, could ride to Cleveland by train, then complete his trip by bus without standing in line to purchase another ticket.

"It's one stop shopping," said Arthur L. Lloyd, Amtrak's western regional director. "It's strictly a convenience for the customer."

Cleveland is currently without Amtrak, but the railroad corporation has said it expects to open service there after the first of next year.

Also after the first of the year, Amtrak said, Greyhound will be able to sell Amtrak tickets in major cities so that a passenger can begin his journey on a bus and complete it on a train.

The eight routes involved in the arrangement are: 1. Boston to Portland and Bangor, Maine.

2. Cleveland to Columbus and Cincinnati.

3. Cleveland to Lima and Indianapolis.

4. Detroit to Toledo and Lima.

5. Minneapolis to Des Moines, Iowa, and Kansas City.

6. Albuquerque, N.M., to Amarillo, Tex., Oklahoma City and Tulsa, Okla.

7. Tampa, Fla., to Fort Myers and Sarasota, Fla.

8. Los Angeles to Las Vegas, Salt Lake City and Ogden, Utah, and Pocatello, Idaho, and West Yellowstone.

Bones Discovered At Portsmouth

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP) — Officials are seeking the origin of two bones that washed ashore from the Ohio River here last month.

The coroner said the man may have died as long ago as a year.

No Evidence In Jet Crash

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — An FBI agent says searchers have found no evidence of a bomb on an Eastern Airlines jet which crashed, killing 70.

Some residents of the crash area three miles south of Charlotte's Douglas Municipal Airport thought the DC9 might have exploded or been on fire before impact Wednesday morning.

One said the plane "looked like a ball of fire" when it passed over the apartment house in which he lives.

Mrs. Thomas Cox, who lives a few hundred yards from the crash scene, said there were "three big booms when it went right over our house. I never heard it sound like that."

There were 12 survivors of the Charleston, S.C.-to-Chicago flight.

The plane had made an uneventful flight and had been cleared for a landing when it crashed, the cause still unexplained.

It caught fire, and autopsies have disclosed that most of the victims burned to death.

Investigators from the National Transportation Safety Board (NTSB) plan to spend another week examining the wreckage. The engines are being taken apart for clues. A spokesman for the NTSB, Tom Slattery, said preliminary examination indicated they were operating normally at the time of the crash.

Kenneth D. Williams, Charlotte Civil Defense director, said the area's disaster plan worked well in its first major test. Fire trucks, ambulances, pickup trucks and private cars arrived quickly. They brought fire-fighting foam, splints and morphine. They took victims quickly to a hospital that had been alerted to put on more personnel.

About 30 of the victims were from Charleston, where a citywide memorial service for them was held Sunday in the Protestant Episcopal Cathedral of St. Luke and St. Paul.

A service for eight military men and three civilian employees of the Department of Defense who died was scheduled for today at the Charleston Naval Base.

Mayor Palmer Galliard has directed that all flags in Charleston be flown at half-staff until the funerals.

The NTSB has scheduled a public hearing in Charlotte in five or six weeks. The officials ruling on the cause of the crash is not expected for several months after that.

IN THE PROBATE COURT, PICKAWAY COUNTY, OHIO, IN THE MATTER OF THE ADOPTION OF JAMES EDWARD HOFFMAN, No. 74-25797

NOTICE BY PUBLICATION Juan DeJesus Sanchez, whose residence is unknown and cannot with reasonable diligence be ascertained, will take notice that on the 30th day of August, 1974, William M. Hoffman, filed a petition for adoption in the Court of Common Pleas, Probate Division, Pickaway County, Ohio, Case No. 74-25797, alleging that the said Juan DeJesus Sanchez is one of the living parents of the above named James Edward Sanchez and has willfully failed to properly support and maintain the said child for a period of more than two (2) years immediately preceding the filing of said petition. The petitioner therefore prays the Court for the adoption of said child and for the change of name of said child to James Edward Hoffman.

You are required to answer the complaint within twenty-eight days after the last publication of this notice, which will be published once each week for six successive weeks, and the last publication will be made on Oct. 22, 1974. In case of your failure to answer or otherwise respond as permitted by the Ohio Rules of Civil Procedure within the time stated, the allegations contained in the petition for adoption will be admitted and the adoption proceedings will continue henceforth.

William Ammer, Judge Probate Court Pickaway County Ohio September 17, 24, October 1, 8, 15, 22, 1974

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES L. WEST

Miss Sandra J. Kerr, Charles West Are Wed

The wedding of Miss Sandra J. Kerr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Kerr, and Charles L. West, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dow O. West, Route 4, Circleville, took place at the home of the bride's parents on September 7th, in Shelby, Ohio. The Rev. James Lumadue performed the double ring service. The organist was Mrs. Lynn Bolinger and soloist, Mr. John Darby.

The afternoon outdoor wedding was held on the lawn. The focal point by the red brick patio was an arrangement of yellow and white daisy mums and zinnias with ivy streamers and fern. There were baskets of multi-colored zinnias on the patio and hanging baskets of zinnias in the area. Salvia, geraniums, marigolds and begonias outlined the patio.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of sheer organza over bridal taffeta. It was fashioned with a scoop neckline edged with a double flounce of organza. A demi-fitted bodice was defined with Venice lace flowerettes. Venice lace and satin ribbon outlined the waistline and flounce which encircled the chapel train. A wide brimmed picture hat with organza flounce and Venice lace held the tiered veil which was fingertip length. The bride carried a colonial bouquet of white daisy poms, purple asters, yellow roses and baby's breath.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Lynn Cooke, wore a gown of yellow gingham and carried a colonial bouquet of yellow and white daisy poms, pink and purple asters and baby's breath. The bride's sister, Miss Barbie Kerr, wore a pink gown, the groom's sister, Miss Amy West wore a blue gown and the other bridesmaid, Miss Donna Wagner, wore a gown of green matching that of the honor attendant. The attendants carried bouquets.

The groom's best man was Mr. Marvin Williams, and the ushers were Mr. Rick Kerr, Mr. Roger Kerr and Fred Cooke.

The bride's mother wore a slipper length powder blue gown with a scooped neckline. The groom's mother wore a slipper length delft blue gown with a white collar. Corsages for both mothers were of white daisies and yellow roses.

A large yellow and white wedding tent on the lawn decorated inside with yellow and white streamers and wedding bells was used to serve the guests at the reception. Tables set on the lawn had yellow cloths and individual bouquets of multi-colored zinnias. Guests enjoyed the organ selections of Mrs. Bolinger during the reception.

The three tiered pastel yellow and white cake was decorated with yellow and white daisy flowerettes. It was topped with an arrangement of white daisy mums, yellow roses and baby's breath. Hostesses, the Misses Ginger Elliot, Sandy Baran, Nancy Lang and Barb Will, served the guests a lovely luncheon and the traditional wedding cake and punch.

Leaving for their honeymoon trip to Canada, the bride wore a green and maroon slack outfit. Her corsage was of white daisies and yellow roses. The young couple will reside in Columbus, Ohio.

The bride is a graduate of the Ohio State University with a degree in Home Economics, specializing as a home training consultant. The groom is a graduate in education from Ohio State University.

Wedding guests from out-of-town were from Mansfield, Tremont, Columbus, Barberton, Circleville and Ashville.

Officers Elected By Emmett Chapel Methodist Women

Emmett Chapel United Methodist Women began their fall term Sept. 11th. Mable Myers presented devotional thoughts based on the article "Just Do Something." She said, just as the Lord promises to spew us from his mouth for being lukewarm to Him, so are our church groups found tasteless if they are guilty of inaction and apathy.

Plans were made to attend the Ohio West Annual UMW Conference, Sept. 28 at Dayton and the Columbus South Annual UMW meeting, Oct. 5th at Reynoldsburg. Other dates to remember: bazaar workshop, Sept. 19th; bake sale, Sept. 20th in front of Penney's at 3:30 p.m.

The following slate of officers were elected for 1975: Mrs. Mable Myers, president; Mrs. Nancy Reeves, vice president; Mrs. Tacie Dumm, treasurer; Mrs. Katie Wamsley, secretary; Mrs. Odessa Wright, Christian personhood; Mrs. Marge Bell, supportive community; Mrs. Valerie Wilson, Christian social involvement; Membership — Mrs. JoAnn Disbennett, membership; Mrs. Elaine Cook, program resources; Mrs. Dorothy Smith, nominations.

The program consisted of reports on the School of Missions. Mrs. Janice Rittinger reported on the Bible study of Jonah and "Faith Or Fear And Future Shock," both of which will be study units in 1975. Mrs. Geneva Ullman commented on the study group "Pluralism."

Mrs. O. E. Barr Presents Program For Esther Circle

Esther Circle of Community United Methodist Church met for its September meeting in the home of Mrs. William Fisher, 542 Garden Parkway, with Mrs. Ray Cundiff as co-hostess. Mrs. Fisher, opened the meeting with devotions and prayer. She told of a number of up-coming dates and activities of the Circle.

A new member, Mrs. Marvene Turner, was welcomed into the circle.

The program was prepared by Mrs. William Cox and in her absence given by Mrs. O. E. Barr. "The Best Moment Of Your Life," was the topic. She pointed out that most of the time we are not fully alive. We take life for granted. But in life there are moments that are never forgotten, be they graduations, weddings, funerals or Christmases. They may be happy moments or tragic or even very simple experiences.

There are moments in a lifetime when time seems to stand still, and nothing can improve or diminish their perfection. She cited moments of eternity in the lives of eminent writers, artists and other well-known people.

The members of Esther Circle then shared some of the important moments in their lives.

The program closed with a poem. "Vision" by Ruth Jenner and a prayer. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Fisher to 17 members.

The October meeting will be in the church parlor with Mrs. Hershel Hill and Mrs. M. E. Vorhees as co-hostesses.

Bearov-Jolliffe Vows Exchanged

Mrs. Betty Refern Bearov, Winchester, Va. and Mr. Charles Jolliffe, 545 Lawnwood Court, Circleville were united in marriage, Sept. 15th, at Woodstock, Va.

'Concern For Human Culture' Program For Rebekah Circle

Rebekah Circle of Community United Methodist Church met Wednesday in the church parlor.

Mrs. Donald Rose presided over the business meeting, which was opened by Mrs. Della Wertman reading an article entitled "Put My Worries To Work."

Members are to call Mrs. William Stout if they can attend a conference meeting of the United Methodist Women in Dayton Sept. 28th, or the Columbus South District United Methodist Women's annual meeting in Reynoldsburg, Oct. 5th.

The chairman asked for a volunteer helper from this circle in three areas:

Extension Council Opening New Homemaker Clubs

Extension Homemakers Home Council met this week for its first fall gathering. Mrs. Clyde Herron, president, conducted the meeting. Plans for the Christmas program and lessons for this year were discussed. The homemakers plan to distribute a fall recipe book at the Pumpkin Show. The recipe book will include Extension Homemaker's favorite pumpkin, squash, and game meat recipes.

Mrs. Emily Berry presented a report of her fun and activities at the National Extension Homemakers Meeting in August. Her enthusiasm inspired the Home Council to encourage future participation in this annual meeting. Two committees were appointed. The Christmas program will be headed by Mrs. Emily Berry and the spring tour by Miss Mary Clark.

Members attending Home Council were: Mrs. Alice Herron, Mrs. Emily Berry, Mrs. Noble Barr, Miss Mary Clark, Mrs. Ann Morehart, Mrs. Fannie Cooper, Mrs. Norma Toland, Mrs. Helen Newlon, Mrs. Dottie Roberts, Mrs. Mae Ross, Mrs. Donna Beougher, Mrs. Geneva Kempton, Mrs. Vera Downs, Mrs. Helen Kittle, and a new Extension homemaker, Mrs. Dee Dawson.

Extension Homemaker Clubs are now forming. If you are interested in joining a group or forming a new one, please contact the Extension Office (474-7534.) A meeting of the new club for young homemakers will be at the home of Dee Dawson, 830 N. Court St. in Circleville, 7-9 p.m., on Sept. 26th. Extension Homemakers meet once a month in member's homes. A lesson, craft or homemakers hobbies and a lot of fun, are all part of the meetings.

Weekday Supper

Sausage squash, green peas, tomato salad, crusty rolls, apple crisp, beverage.

Sausage Squash

The acorn variety of squash is in peak supply in September and October.

2 acorn squash, each about 3/4 pound
4 tablespoons dark brown sugar
1 pound bulk sausage
1/4 cup finely chopped onion
1/2 cup finely chopped celery
1 cup soft breadcrumbs

Wash squash. With a sharp heavy knife, cut each in half lengthwise; score each half by making shallow lengthwise and crosswise cuts into flesh in 4 places. Sprinkle each squash half with 1 tablespoon brown sugar. In a 10-inch skillet over moderate heat mash sausage with a fork until crumbled and cooked through; with a slotted spoon remove sausage to brown paper; pour off all fat in skillet except about 1 tablespoon. To sausage drippings in skillet add onion and celery; cook gently, stirring often, until onion is wilted but not brown. Thoroughly mix together the sausage, onion and celery and breadcrumbs; place a portion of the mixture into each squash cavity, patting down. Place stuffed squash in an ungreased oblong glass baking dish (11 1/4 by 7 1/2 by 1 3/4 inches) or similar utensil. Cover dish tightly with foil. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until squash is very tender when pierced with a fork and sausage topping has browned about 1 1/4 hours. Makes 4 servings.

JAPANESE DINNER

Pork spinach soup, chicken teriyaki, rice, sunomono, fruit or ice cream.

SUNOMONO

Our version of a Japanese dish that's a cross between a relish and a salad. Medium cucumber
1 tablespoon sugar
3 tablespoons cider vinegar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon monosodium glutamate, if desired
16 medium shrimp (cooked and shelled and deveined)

Pare cucumber; with the sharp tines of a fork, score lengthwise; slice thin. In a shallow bowl stir together the sugar, vinegar, salt and if used the monosodium glutamate; add cucumbers and mix well; cover and chill for at least 1 hour. Cut shrimps in half lengthwise so they retain their shape. Small crescent-shape plates, small rectangular or other-shape Japanese plates or regular round bread-and-butter plates are all suitable for serving sunomono. Using these, at serving time overlap cucumber slices at one side of plates; overlap shrimp at other side and spoon liquid from cucumbers over them. Place Sunomono at top of each place-cover with a salad or seafood fork (depending which is a suitable size for the plates) arranged horizontally below it. Makes 4 servings.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Uncle Wants Applause

DEAR ABBY: I was recently married. At the reception, my uncle handed me an envelope. I had no idea it was a check, but I put it in my pocket without looking at it. (There were over 300 people at the reception, and I was busy accepting congratulations.)

Before we started for our honeymoon I opened the envelope and found a handsome check and a four-page letter of advice on how to stay happily married. (This uncle and his wife had been married for 34 years.)

On our honeymoon, my wife and I composed what we thought was a very nice letter of thanks, and mailed it to my uncle and aunt.

When we returned home, we found a very angry letter from my uncle ripping me up one side and down the other for not having the "good manners" to have opened the envelope at the reception, announcing his gift and reading his letter. I was shocked!

Abby, had I opened the envelope at the reception, I wouldn't have made such an announcement.

Was I in error? If so, I will apologize.

BEWILDERED NEPHEW
DEAR NEPH: It would have been improper for you to have announced your uncle's gift at the reception and an imposition on your guests. Your "apology" is quite unnecessary; but your publicity-seeking uncle owes you one.

DEAR ABBY: Ours was an office romance. Mert was in accounting and I was a secretary to the president. Maybe opposites do attract, because I'm the vivacious, outgoing type, and Mert is quiet and more introverted. I had never met a kinder, more thoughtful man.

After three years of marriage, we're having a planned baby in five months. I'm 28 and Mert is 30. Now the problem:

I plan to take a six-month leave from work to have the baby and to return to work when the baby is three months old. Mert is going to quit his office job and stay home to keep house and care for our child. He has a fantastic way with children. I don't. Mert loves cooking and housekeeping. I hate it. Mert finds office work dull and boring. I love it. I've always earned much more than Mert.

Do you think this could work out? Or do you think we're crazy?

REVERSED ROLES
DEAR REVERSED: Why not? If it doesn't, you aren't married to the plan. And no I don't think you're crazy. I think you are to be envied. Few people have the courage to thumb their noses at the rule of thumb.

DEAR ABBY: I read a claim of psychologists that the average person tells about 1,000 lies per year. Is that true?

DESIRES PROOF
DEAR DESIRES: What "psychologists"? Reliable statistics for such a study could be acquired only by taping every word uttered in one year by an "average" person (and there's another trap for you—who's to define who is average?) and then separating the truth from the lies.

I doubt that such was ever made. Moral: Don't believe everything you read.

Barbara Edwards Feted With Shower

A bridal shower was given in honor of Miss Barbara Edwards recently at the home of Debbie Forquer, Ashville.

Games were played and refreshments of punch and cake, decorated with blue wedding bells, were served by Terry Pulso and the hostess.

Guests were: Ginger Rathburn, Gladys Edwards, Susie Richard, Jane Huston, Brenda Bausum, Jeannie Riegel, Joyce Flowers, Ada Lou Deal, Jody Hettinger, Merry Hall, Nancy Davisman, Betty Valentine, Brenda Bush and Diane Huntwork.

Sending gifts as they were unable to attend were, Jane Bausum, Charlotte Heggie, Lois Dill, Carol Teets and Cathy Worth.

Old Air Pollution Controls Reinstated

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state Environmental Board of Review has reinstated old air pollution controls, advancing to July of next year the deadline for industry compliance with sulfur oxide emission standards.

The ruling vacated state Environmental Protection Agency standards, effective last Jan. 21, and left the next move up to the EPA, which says the July 1975 deadline is unrealistic.

An EPA spokeswoman said Monday an appeal of the decision was likely before the 10th District Court of Appeals in Columbus. An obvious but painstaking alternative would be for the EPA to devise a new set of guidelines.

In that light the ruling was seen as a victory for coal-burning electric utility companies with high sulfur dioxide emissions.

The revoked county-by-county controls were established to provide different standards for high pollution industrial areas and low density rural counties. The deadline for compliance was July, 1977.

The old regulations, now back in effect, divide the state into 14 control regions, often grouping urban and rural counties together. The standards, in some cases more stringent than the newer code, apply to industries being boilers in excess of 250 million BTU.

The three-man environmental board said the EPA had followed improper procedures in adopting its new policies for controls on industry and business.

Acting on industry appeals filed last February, the board said EPA director Ira Whitman's public notice of the new code was "vague and uninformative."

and that the countywide program "amounts to an alternation of the lawfully designated air quality control regions."

The state EPA made public the board's decision, although Whitman was out of town Monday and unavailable for comment.

Procedures For Amnesty Shown

WASHINGTON (AP)—Once a draft evader or military deserter takes the first step toward accepting President Ford's conditional amnesty offer, there is no turning back.

He is not free to negotiate, for example, how long he will work in a public service job under the supervision of his Selective Service board.

The deserter or evader can cite reasons why he should serve fewer than the 24-month maximum length of service. But if he is unhappy with the time decided on by the local U.S. attorney or his former military service, there is no established route of appeal, and refusal to serve probably would result in prosecution for the original offense.

Officials say an evader or deserter living in Canada should call or write before reporting to a U.S. attorney or his former military service. They caution that some men — no one is sure how many — might be ineligible for the program.

Instead of starting a public service job, these men might find themselves under arrest. Some might have been legally charged outside the Aug. 4, 1964, to March 28, 1973, period covered by the program. Others may be accused of crimes in addition to draft evasion or desertion.

The 4,500 evaders and deserters believed to be living in Canada have 15 days from the date they re-enter the United States until they report to a military installation (for deserters) or the U.S. attorney in the area where their draft board was located (for evaders).

The informal controls along the U.S.-Canadian border make it likely some returnees will come back without checking at U.S. Customs stations, all of which have had computerized lists of evaders and deserters since 1970.

Those who do report at the border will be checked off and handed a copy of Ford's amnesty proclamation but in no way followed, officials say.

Once a deserter has completed his alternative service, he receives a new "clemency discharge" in place of the undesirable discharge.

Although given a clear military record, he receives no veterans benefits. His discharge carries no code identifying him as a deserter, but the Veterans Administration receives a list of persons discharged "for willful and persistent unauthorized absence."

A major objection among some evaders and deserters to amnesty proposals suggested to Ford was a requirement for some statement of allegiance or admission of guilt.

In the program announced Monday, only deserters must sign a statement which declares their allegiance and includes a promise to "defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic...." There is no mention of their crime or Vietnam.

Officials said evaders' participation in the public service program will be tantamount to a statement of allegiance to the United States.

Taft Supports Amnesty Service

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, says he approves President Ford's proposed earned immunity for draft evaders, but wants assurance the returnees won't jeopardize jobs sought by those who served the country.

Taft noted he introduced a similar measure last December, but said the executive order approach "will be far less controversial and more likely to appeal to those we are intending to help."

Taft wants the conditional amnesty offer spelled out to protect "the veterans who did serve their country, but who have returned to an extremely tight job market."

Returning violators should be restricted to the type of jobs they could hold and "placed in non-competitive job positions and without the usual job benefits," Taft said.

Fire Alarm Foils Theft

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Where there's smoke, there's fire. But Cincinnati police found something else too.

Two Kentucky men were in jail today charged with attempted bank larceny after a fire alarm was triggered by an acetylene torch as it cut into a night depository box.

Charged was James H. Roberts, 43, of Louisville, and Chester R. Fultz, 26, of Lexington. Roberts also was charged with carrying a firearm.

The men were apprehended when an off-duty Hamilton County Sheriff's deputy spotted someone in the bank. He was assisted immediately by two patrol cars dispatched to the scene after a report of a fire in the bank.

A torch was found in the smoke-filled building near the depository box.

Air Conditioning Plant Scheduled

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—General Motors Corp. has announced it will open a new Delco Air Conditioning Division plant in Dayton on Jan. 1, the fifth separate GM division in the city.

GM Chairman Richard C. Gerstenberg said the division will be responsible for the auto air conditioning business now handled by Frigidaire.

He said the move is expected to increase employment at the Frigidaire plant by about 10 per cent by the end of October.

Junk Auto Law Fought

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— The Legal Aid Society here is challenging an Ohio law which permits cities to tow old cars as junk.

The challenge is contained in a suit filed Monday in federal court on behalf of Howard Peterson of Cleveland, who is seeking $6,000 damages from a towing company.

The suit claims Peterson's 1965 Oldsmobile, which needed a wheel, was parked legally for a week when it was towed and dismantled.

Douglas L. Rogers, Peterson's attorney, said police determined who owned the car. But the suit claims Peterson never was notified the city intended to remove the vehicle.

State law permits a car three-years-old or older to be removed if it has been parked in one place more than 72 hours and appears inoperative, Rogers said. The law requires that the car be worth less than $100 but does not require that the owner be notified.

Cleveland Police Chief Gerald J. Rademaker said he had not received a copy of the suit and could not comment beyond stating that every effort is made to contact owners of apparently abandoned cars before the autos are towed.

Legislative Report

By MYRL SHOEMAKER,
State Representative
88th House District

The State Controlling Board has released an initial sum of $22.2 million to the State Department of Education for auxiliary services to non-public schools. This first release is part of an overall appropriation by the General Assembly of $81.5 million.

Until July 1 of this year, State officials were uncertain whether the state's non-public school funding program was constitutional. Two previous plans enacted by the General Assembly were struck down by the federal courts. One plan dealt with providing an income tax-credit for tuition costs, and the second dealt with giving parents of non-public school students a direct cash payment as a tuition rebate. Both plans were declared unconstitutional in violation of the Establishment of the Religion clause of the First Amendment to the U.S. Bill of Rights. This amendment prohibits any governmental action which would give special consideration to any sectarian purpose and which would foster an excessive government entanglement with religion.

Ohio's third plan, for which the $22.2 million was released last week, will be used for student-oriented services that are comparable to services already available in public schools. No such services financed from this money may be used for any purpose that would have a principal or primary effect of advancing religion.

The Ohio Chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union is still attempting to have the plan struck down. The Ohio ACLU has filed a petition before the U.S. Supreme Court asking that Ohio be enjoined from distributing any of the auxiliary services money, pending a final decision by the High Court. The Court, however, has not granted this request.

It was reported this week by Deputy State Auditor Thomas Ferguson that the state auditor's office has conducted more than 9,000 individual audits of local political subdivisions since 1971. This figure represents more audits conducted than any other single state auditor in the history of Ohio.

Ferguson said that these audits have resulted in 3,875 findings for recovery of taxpayer's money.

He pointed out that the auditor's office is limited to 300 examiners statewide, a number set by law back in the 1930's when barely a third of audits conducted today were required.

The Ohio Public Welfare Department received good news last week—the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare (HEW) praised Ohio's quality control system "as a model for other states of a proper organizational structure." Basically, quality control seeks to reduce the error rate in welfare payments, including errors such as payments to ineligible, or under-or-over payments to those who are eligible for aid.

The reduction in error rate is due in large part to the computerization of the Department's caseload records, which allows for faster and more efficient checks on present welfare accounts.

While no one is ever happy about any rate of error, it appears that present improvements will lead to greater quality control on welfare payments in the future.

Commissioners Discuss Emergency Readiness

Natural disasters and other emergencies in Pickaway County were discussed in regular session Monday by County Commissioners who met with groups who want a siren system to warn of disasters and an ambulance to care for injured citizens.

Paul Dean met with commissioners to discuss plans for a county-wide disaster siren system that would be activated in the event of natural disasters as a warning of impending danger.

Nothing was decided in the meeting, which was described as a question and answer session.

The proposed plans call for the placement of warning sirens in all townships and villages in the county and the city of Circleville.

Funding would be with matching federal money.

Commissioners discussed the possibility of allowing individual townships and villages to install sirens at their own expense.

VA Orientation Classes Slated

R. L. Comstock, chief, Voluntary Services, at the Chillicothe Veterans Administration Hospital, announced the dates for orientation classes for persons interested in volunteer assignments.

Day classes are scheduled for Monday, September 23 and 30 from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. and evening classes October 8 and 15 from 7 p.m. to 9:15 p.m.

All sessions will be held in the Building 28 Conference Room at the hospital. Participating in the orientation training will be key hospital personnel, including Dr. Retus Osborne III, Chief of Staff and Mrs. Alnita Morgan, Associate Chief Nurse for Education.

Anyone interested in a volunteer role can contact Mrs. Lewis Dean, VA Hospital Chairman, 474-2481 or the local Red Cross 474-5736. Transportation will be furnished to the Orientation Classes, as well as for regular duty assignments.

This program, as well as all other Red Cross programs, is supported by Pickaway County Community Fund.

Wreck Injures Driver

Nineteen-year-old Nita L. Whaley, Route 1, Lockbourne, was treated and released from Berger Hospital, for injuries sustained in a single-car accident 1:05 p.m. Monday.

Ms. Whaley was traveling south on the Circleville-Lockbourne Road when she went off the right berm of the road. Losing control, the vehicle went roadside across the road striking two trees.

The auto rolled onto its left side sliding back across the highway, rolled back onto its wheels and came to a halt in a soybean field.

Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy J. Philip Brown did not cite the driver.

Charge Man With Death By Arson

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — William Bratcher, an unemployed preacher-singer charged in the arson death of his wife, was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment Monday.

Judge Robert V. Wood leveled the life term for aggravated murder and an additional seven-to-25 years for aggravated arson, with the terms to run concurrently.

Bratcher, an ordained minister, was pastor at churches in Kokomo, Ind., Mulberry, Ind., and Indianapolis.

He was charged in the May 17 death of his 32-year-old wife Pauline, whom he married in January.

She died in an apartment blaze in suburban Norwood.

His wife had appeared with him on a weekly Indiana television show as a gospel singer.

During testimony, Bratcher denied prosecution claims that his wife was planning to leave him. Bratcher said he had a drinking problem and was drinking with his wife the night of her death.

Fire experts said an investigation indicated gasoline had been doused on the bedroom floor and ignited.

Bratcher said he and his wife were planning to return to Kokomo because their lives had been threatened in Cincinnati.

He told the court the threats came after two men demanded he operate a prostitution ring at his apartment building.

Ohio Family Escapes Injury In Air Crash

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — An Ohio family of four escaped injury in an emergency landing by their plane on Sunday after it lost power on takeoff, authorities said Monday.

Police identified the pilot as Anthony Lamontia of Brecksville, Ohio. His wife and two sons were aboard the craft.

Gary Rose, chief tower controller at the Reynolds Municipal Airport, said the single-engine aircraft lost power after takeoff. It circled the airport, then glided to a landing on some grass near a taxiway, he said.

Rose said the plane clipped a hangar during the landing roll causing about $5,000 damage. The aircraft was extensively damaged, he said, but no estimate was available.

Crime Council Seeks Money For PR Work

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An attorney-administrator for Gov. John J. Gilligan's Ohio Organized Crime Prevention Council told the state Controlling Board Monday, the council needs two public relations persons to get its story told.

"The problems movies, TV and the press have, is that they see organized crime as an Eliot Ness type of thing," said Walter Kaufman. "It's Big Business," he added.

Kaufman painted a dismal picture of organized crime in Ohio. He said organized crimes by five or more persons are widespread.

Before the board approved 4-3 the $25,500 expenditure, for additional Council employees, Kaufman claimed there was "a $30 million gambling operation in Cuyahoga County." Ninety per cent of the expenditure will come from federal funds.

He said the division was drawing up an organized crime intelligence map of Ohio and could possibly ask the legislature next year for statutory authority to operate.

He said sections of the state had organized crime that is different than most people think of it, but there are sections "under the influence of an organized crime family" in Cuyahoga County.

Kaufman claimed crime had extended its reach into government. He didn't cite any specifics, but said: "That's a fact. We do have it in the state of Ohio."

Asked if the crime unit possibly probed former Gov. James A. Rhodes, who has claimed he was the victim of a "plumbers unit" operating out of the governor's office, Johnson said:

"I don't think I would like to say anything about that. I don't think I should."

A few minutes later, Gilligan's press secretary, Robert Tenenbaum, said the answer should have been "absolutely not."

A cold front now moving southward into the upper Great Lakes will continue southward and is forecasted to arrive into northern Ohio Wednesday morning, likely bringing some cooler temperatures.

Clear skies during the night allowed for the cooling of a southerly flow of increasingly moist air, resulting in extensive fog development. This fog, while heavy, dissipated during the morning hours after sunrise.

Temperatures Monday night were rather uniform across the state, generally holding in the mid 50s. Sunshine and a continuing southerly air flow will help push temperatures during the afternoon into the 70s across the state.

Luken Attacks Money For Nixon

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Saying President Ford's request for $850,000 to former President Nixon would be "an incredible waste of taxpayer's money," Rep. Thomas A. Luken, D-Ohio, urged the House Appropriations sub-committee Monday to make a "cut to the bone."

President Ford said the former president needed the money for transition expenses and allowances.

Luken made the remarks while campaigning against his November foe Willis Gradison. Both are former Cincinnati mayors.

Buffalo Defeats Raiders, 21-20

BUFFALO (AP) — "I know it's hard to say it's good to get hurt but ..." O.J. Simpson never finished the sentence. He was busy rubbing his heavily taped right ankle sprained on a 20-yard run.

But his "but" was an awfully big one.

Without Simpson, the National Football League's leading ground gainer and Most Valuable Player last year, the Buffalo Bills were forced to go to the air Monday evening.

Quarterback Joe Ferguson, last in NFL passing a year ago, responded with a pair of touchdowns in the final two minutes that carried the Bills to a 21-20 victory over the Oakland Raiders in his team's season-opener.

Both passes, one for nine yards and the other for 13, went to wide receiver Ahmad Rashad, acquired by the Bills in a trade with St. Louis for quarterback Dennis Shaw.

"So many people think it's all me, even some of the players might have thought that," said Simpson, who rushed for a record 2,003 yards last season.

Simpson was hurt with 56 seconds remaining in the second period. By that time he had gained 78 yards in 12 carries.

The team physician diagnosed the sprain as "slight to moderate," but gave no indication whether Simpson would be ready for the Miami Dolphins here Sunday.

Buffalo shot into a 7-0 lead on Ferguson's four-yard toss to J.D. Hill. Aging George Blanda put Oakland on the scoreboard with a 47-yard field goal at 13:49 in the period.

In the third period, left-handed quarterback Ken Stabler directed the Raiders from their 42 to Buffalo's 16 and Clarence Davis raced around left end for a touchdown. Blanda followed with a 41-yard field goal about seven minutes later. The drama was saved for the last quarter, however.

Oakland's Don Connors halted a Buffalo drive at the Raiders' one, nailing Simpson's replacement Gary Hayman and sending him out with a sprained right ankle.

Marv Hubbard's fumble set the stage for Rashad's first TD with 1:56 left and Buffalo went ahead, 14-13.

Forty-four seconds later, Buffalo got the ball back but Jim Braxton fumbled. Defensive tackle Art Thoms, a 260-pounder, grabbed the ball and raced 29 yards for a touchdown to put the Raiders in front 20-14.

Following the kickoff, Buffalo was on its own 28. Ferguson completed three passes, Oakland picked up two of its 10 game penalties and the Bills were on the Raiders' 13.

One more pass to Rashad and John Leyboldt's conversion and Buffalo forged ahead 21-20.

Oakland then marched into Buffalo territory and with six seconds left, Blanda tried a 50-yard field goal. It sailed wide.

Following Simpson's injury, the Raiders made no change in their game plan, Coach John Madden said.

"We had to play our own game," said Madden. "The Bills are more than O.J. Simpson. As great as O.J. is, they proved they were a team, not just O.J."

Southern Cross Loses 3rd Yacht Race Heat

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — The challenge for the America's Cup reached a climax today. If the Australians don't gain their first victory in the 1974 best-of-seven series, it will be all over and the United States will have made another successful defense in four straight races.

But win or lose, Alan Bond, owner of the Aussie's 12-meter Southern Cross, vows he will be back again.

Southern Cross lost its third race to Courageous, the U.S. yacht, on Monday.

Apprentice Jockey Chris McCarron rode 190 winners the first six months of 1974.

CHS Golfers Shoot Best Round; Beat Two Teams

Circleville golfers, three shooting under 40, nipped powerful St. Charles and swamped Hillsboro in a meet Monday at Pickaway Country Club.

Circleville scored 153 points to 155 for St. Charles and 168 for SCOL rival Hillsboro.

The total was the low score of the season for the Tiger golfers and Coach Steve Brudzinski gives the credit to Keith Sanders who came through with a 37.

Medalists were Circleville's Jeff Spires and M. Weiss of St. Charles who fired 36s.

Spires had six pars and a birdie in his round, while Sanders scored with three pars and two birds.

Other Tiger scorers were Jim England, whose 39 total included six pars; Mark McFadden, whose 41 came on a par and two birdies; and Mike Currie who collected three pars enroute to a 43.

Chillicothe invades Pickaway Country Club Wednesday to take on Circleville. On Thursday, the Tigers will travel to Groveport for a match with Wehrle High School.

Bexley Rips CHS Runners

Bexley cross-country runners handed Circleville its first loss of the year Monday, a 17-34 decision at Bexley High School.

Mark Tupee was the individual winner as he helped raise his team's season mark to 4-0 with a time of 10:32.5.

Bill Massie had the best time for Circleville in the 31-runner field as he ran the course in 11:11 for fourth place.

Other Tiger runners were:

Jeff Carter, 11:33, 7th; Doug Baker, 11:39, 12th; Raymond Smith, 11:52, 17th; Dave Uland, 11:55, 18th; Randy Speakman, 11:56, 19th; Randy Swoyer, 12:34, 24th; Dwight Plum, 12:44, 26th; Alan Ranck, 13:15, 27th; Ed Brown, 13:27, 29th; and Joel Baker, 13:28, 30th.

Irish Lead AP Football Ratings

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Notre Dame Coach Ara Parseghian would be happier over the Irish being the No. 1 ranked college football team if it were January.

Notre Dame, the defending national champions, replaced Oklahoma as top team in the weekly Associated Press rankings. The Fighting Irish, second a week ago, received 19 first-place votes and 1,004 points from a nationwide panel of sportswriters and broadcasters.

Ohio State, which got 17 first place votes, was in second with 998 points.

"Of course, we're very much honored to be No.1," Parseghian said with a laugh. "But it's where you wind up after the season is over that's important."

"I would be a lot happier being No. 1 if this were January."

The Irish campaigned the entire 1973 season to be No. 1, and finally made it with a 24-23 victory over Alabama in the Sugar Bowl.

"We had sort of a long fight to be No. 1 last season and it helped our determination, I believe," said Parseghian, whose Irish teams have lost only 15 of 104 games in his 10 years as head coach. "I think the reason we weren't ranked No. 1 before this season began is all the things that have happened to us — the injuries, the construction accidents, the dismissals."

"People thought we would not be as strong as last season after that. But we were fortunate enough to have a little better performance to open the season than some of the teams who were ranked ahead of us earlier."

Notre Dame, idle last week, downed Georgia Tech 31-7 in a nationally televised game Sept. 9.

Oklahoma, which dropped to third with 18 first place votes but only 929 points, had tough sledding in their 28-11 debut with lightly regarded Baylor.

Sooner players shared Parseghian's view on the importance of being No. 1 at this point in the season.

"I'm not too worried about this poll," said Sooner quarterback Steve Davis. "I would have to think we played well enough to stay No. 1 and it would be a lot nicer to be No. 1. But the poll will probably change a lot of times before the season is over."

"We just want to play well enough to wind up on top."

Nebraska followed third-place Oklahoma with 728 points and Alabama was fifth with 714. Michigan, Louisiana State, Penn State, Texas and Arkansas round out the top ten.

Arizona State heads up the second ten, followed in order by UCLA, Southern California, Maryland, Pittsburgh and North Carolina State, tied for 15th, Tennessee, Arizona and Houston and Stanford, tied for 20th.

Fowler Top Defender By UC

Bill Fowler, junior defensive end from Circleville, has been selected as the Defensive Player of the Week for the Cincinnati Bearcats by the coaching staff.

Fowler had seven tackles and assisted in two others besides recovering one fumble.

Tim Liggins was the offensive star.

Autographed photos of the duo will be given as prizes during the first week session of the six area chapters of the University of Cincinnati Neighborhood Boosters Clubs.

Reds Wallop San Diego, 9-2

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Cesar Geronimo, Dave Concepcion and Johnny Bench each drove in two runs Monday night and the Cincinnati Reds walloped the San Diego Padres 9-2 to remain 2½ games behind the first-place Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League West pennant race.

The Dodgers beat the Houston Astros 7-2, holding their lead over the rampaging Reds.

The Reds' victory was their seventh in the last eight games. They scored seven runs in the first three innings, six off starter and loser Dan Spillner, 7-11.

That made it easy for righthander Clay Kirby, 10-8. He scattered seven hits, one of them a run-scoring double by John Grubb, in the eight innings he worked. Rookie Rawly Eastwick worked the ninth for the Reds.

Cincinnati collected 13 hits. Pete Rose had two singles and a double, while Geronimo and Dan Driessen each hit a single and a bases-empty homer.

The loss was the fourth in a row for the Padres, who are 4-12 against the Reds this season.

The Reds tagged Spillner for three runs in the first inning and knocked him out during a four-run third. In the first, they loaded the bases on a single by Joe Morgan and walks to Bench and Driessen. Geronimo singled in two runs and Concepcion singled in the third run.

In the third inning, Driessen and

Buckeyes Get Ready For Beavers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Woody Hayes sees no real mental problem for his Ohio State football team this week, preparing for a home opener with winless Oregon State.

"I don't think so," he said, "because we simply have too much work to do."

The Buckeyes opened with a 34-19 Big Ten victory at Minnesota last week while Oregon State has dropped 23-15 and 48-35 decisions at Syracuse and Georgia.

Minnesota outscored Ohio State 16-13 in the second half, likely psychological fuel for Hayes this week.

The defense especially may be in for hard work after yielding almost a third of the entire 1973 total of 64 points.

"We stunk in the fourth quarter and you can quote me," said George Hill, who coaches the Buckeyes' defense.

Hill, looking at the Oregon State offense, said quarterback Alvin White was the Beavers' sparkplug.

"He makes things happen," Hill said. "On their touchdown drives, he's very much involved."

White is Oregon State's No. 1 rusher with 112 yards and has passed for 281 yards in the two games. He completed 130 passes as the 1973 starter.

Joe Bugel, another Ohio State assistant coach, said, "Oregon State is flexible in its defensive lineup. They move people around the field. It's been successful for them, too."

Tribe Opens Double Tilt With Brewers

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Cleveland Indians begin a two-game series with the Milwaukee Brewers tonight, striving to hold on to fourth place in the American League East Division.

Last week they purchased veteran Frank Robinson from the California Angels in hopes that he could help them win the pennant, but a weekend in Baltimore made it a little difficult for the Tribe to think about the division title.

The Orioles took three out of four from the Indians, who are now seven and a half games out in fourth place. The Brewers are in fifth place, nine and a half games behind the leader.

Jim Perry will be seeking his 17th victory for the Indians when he faces Jim Colborn tonight.

Wednesday night the Indians send Dick Bosman against the Brewers Kevin Kobel.

The Tribe had Monday off and will have Thursday night off before traveling to New York for a two-night doubleheader on Friday night.

Geronimo connected for consecutive homers for the first two runs. A walk to Concepcion, singles by Kirby and Rose, a walk to Morgan and a wild pitch climaxed the uprising.

Andy Messersmith, the Los Angeles Dodgers' big winner, apparently thinks that one day off for Mike Marshall, the team's ace relief pitcher, is too much. And Manager Walt Alston tends to agree.

Although the Dodgers were holding a comfortable four-run lead over the Houston Astros after seven innings Monday night, Alston brought in his durable right-hander to preserve Messersmith's 18th victory.

"If Mike doesn't pitch, he gets rusty sitting around — and angry," Messersmith quipped after the Dodgers had finished with a 7-2 victory and maintained their 2½-game lead over the Cincinnati Reds in the National League West pennant race. "He hadn't worked since Saturday."

Montreal Expos and New York Mets split 3-2 decisions in a twilight-night doubleheader, and the San Francisco Giants defeated the Atlanta Braves 4-2.

Only one American League game was played, the Minnesota Twins trouncing the Kansas City Royals 7-2.

Marshall's two scoreless innings against the Astros Monday night reduced his ERA to 2.28. In his two-inning stint, he allowed only one baserunner — on a walk.

The Dodgers capitalized on some sloppy Houston play, including four errors, one hit batsman, one wild pitch and one passed ball, for most of their runs. Bill Buckner and Lee Lacy each had two hits and scored twice for Los Angeles.

Mets 2-3, Expos 3-2
The Expos tied their club record of eight consecutive victories by winning the opener, overcoming a 2-1 deficit on Ron Woods' two-run single in the seventh inning off Jerry Koosman, 13-10.

In the nightcap, the Mets ended Montreal's winning streak behind the four-hit pitching of Randy Sterling and Tug McGraw.

Giants 4, Braves 2
Jim Barr checked the Braves on seven hits for his 13th victory, and received home runs from Bobby Bonds, who hit his 20th, and Gary Thomasson, who smacked his first. Bonds also doubled in a run. Dusty Baker homered for the Braves.

Twins 7, Royals 2
Bert Blyleven hurled a sixhitter for his 15th victory and struck out five, increasing his season's total to 225 — second highest in the American League — as the surging Twins thumped the slumping Royals. The Twins have won eight of their last 10 while the Royals have lost 19 of 23.

Steve Braun and Eric Soderholm each singled in two runs for the Twins and Glenn Borgmann rapped a solo homer.

Charlie Baggett Top Big Ten Player

CHICAGO (AP)—Charlie Baggett of Michigan State has been named the Big Ten Player of the Week on offense by The Associated Press for his performance in Saturday's 41-7 victory over Northwestern.

Baggett, who transferred to MSU from North Carolina and has another year of eligibility, completed only four passes against Northwestern but two were for touchdowns of 57 and 44 yards.

Another 44-yard pass completion set up a touchdown and the 6-foot, 180-pounder gained 64 yards running while going three yards for a touchdown.

Jim McKean, 29, is the first Canadian umpire in the American League. He lives in Montreal.

WOULD SOMEONE PLEASE TELL ME WHY?

Why I can't sell a very spacious new 3 large bedroom 70' x 14' mobile home with a very roomy full bath between two bedrooms and a very adequate 1/2 bath by the other bedroom. It is a 1974 model fully carpeted from one end to the other and has one of the most convenient kitchens that any homemaker could ever want. The styling is unique and very luxurious and the best part of all is the price. Fully furnished, draped, carpeted and ready to live in, it is less than $10,000. If someone can help I would appreciate it. It is located on the Circleville Mobile Homes sales lot on US Route 23.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR WEDNESDAY
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Influences favorable in part, but day will require more effort, steady application of your skills and knowledge. Cooperation with others vital.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Fine planetary aspects encourage artistic pursuits, romance, domestic interests. Just one admonition: Curb emotionalism.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): With a little ingenuity, you can make a bright new place for yourself now. Use a practical arena for trying out ideas before putting them into effect.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): In all endeavors, consider the long-range view. Don't put a lot of time and effort into undertakings which seem to spell immediate success but have no lasting value.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Excellent solar influences! Capitalize on your dynamic personality — and you can ride ahead with distinction.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Don't block opposition that could eventually be converted into support. Work diplomatically to bring it around. Some barriers aren't as impregnable as they seem.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Be alert now. A thoughtless move could have more repercussions than you could possibly imagine. Emphasize your steadfastness, practicality.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): Handling your own or others' affairs may bring new or increased problems. Be ready for changes. Don't make unnecessary ones yourself, but do accept others which seem desirable.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Do not hesitate to advance an unusual idea if you have given it proper thought. But do take into consideration the previous plans of associates — and possible opposition.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): The "unique" and "unusual" are often misleading. Get beneath the surface of new offerings. Recognize secondary factors — also the smaller, but worthwhile, prizes.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Rugged determination is day's need. AND the fortitude not to break your stride hesitatingly when obstacles or new problems appear. Use that bright mind of yours.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Face up to opposition but do not let it incite you to useless argument or irritability — with little accomplished constructively.

YOU BORN TODAY are both intellectually and manually dexterous. You think quickly, act speedily — but always with precision and accuracy. You are idealistic and creatively inclined; would make an outstanding writer, lecturer or educator. Extremely versatile, however, there are many other fields open to you when choosing a career, but notably the theater — where you could succeed as actor, director, playwright or critic; the law, which could lead to politics or statesmanship; science — especially in medicine or engineering. Birthdate of: Greta Garbo, Swedish film star.

Russell Eyes Upcoming Cage Season

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The Cleveland Cavalier's first hardship selection may turn out to be a hardship for some of the people who have helped him most.

Among those who have helped 6-foot-8 Big Ten scoring champion Campy Russell are Dave Bing and Don Adams of the Detroit Pistons.

"Dave has taught me so much about basketball and especially pro ball," Russell said Monday of Bing, who invited Russell to his basketball camp the last eight summers.

During the summer, Russell also was taken under the wing of Adams, one of the National Basketball Association's most physical cornermen.

"Don has taught me a lot about the physical part of pro ball, and I don't think it should be too much of a problem," Russell said. "If you use your head, get in the right position and then work at it, things should be okay."

Russell skipped his final season at Michigan to get an early start in NBA play. He said the 48-minute games and the 82-game schedule will be two of the toughest changes to adjust to from college basketball.

"I admit it will be difficult at first, but I can't worry about it. I'm in good shape, and I'll just have to dig in," he said.

The Northwest Territories and southern Canada were linked for the first time in 1949 by the Mackenzie Highway.

NEW YORK (AP) — scene. Honest, gang, we're sorry we didn't put out a bulletin on "The Night Stalker" before he stalked on last Friday. But the story wasn't available for advance inspection before our deadline.

Yet deadlines are what Carl Kolchak, hero of the series, would know about. Kolchak, portrayed in slam-bang fashion by Darren McGavin, works for a mythical Chicago wire service called Independent News Service.

Real wire service employees will be this ABC show's most devoted fans. They'll enjoy its close attention to detail, the way it captures the tense, deadline-every-minute atmosphere of wire life.

They'll note the way Kolchak uses a tiny spy camera to shoot action pictures at great distances, the way the office teletypes are turned off at night so as not to disturb those tussling with the Muse, the way no bookies ever call for sports scores, the way no client urgently requests closing prices on hide futures.

The depiction is authentic as all get-out X X X FLASH! This plot just in. Some creep wearing but-tonedown shoes and a cape has been brutally dispatching young ladies with a sword he pulls out of his cane. Police are mystified, particularly when they almost catch him and pump hundreds of bullets into him without any effect.

Kolchak suspects Jack the Ripper, about 150 years old, formerly of London, is now taking a stab at the Chicago

OU-L Adds Four New Faculty Members

Ohio University-Lancaster added four new faces to its staff and faculty this fall: Dr. Sonny Baxter, assistant professor of geology; Dr. Suzanne Cummins, assistant professor of secretarial technology; Dr. Edward Fitzgibbon, assistant professor of history; and Mrs. Madeline Scott, administrative intern in student programs.

Dr. Baxter has been a faculty member at the Chillicothe Campus of Ohio University since receiving his doctoral degree from Ohio State University in 1972. Dr. Baxter will be teaching courses in geology. He also possesses a master of science degree from the University of Calgary in Canada.

Dr. Cummins joins the OU-L staff as coordinator of the secretarial technology program. She has recently received her doctoral degree in vocational technical education from Ohio State, and also holds a master's degree from O.S.U. in business education. Dr. Cummins has a varied background of education and business experience. All students interested in the two-year associate degree in secretarial technology are encouraged to see Dr. Cummins.

Russian history is the specialized interest of Dr. Edward Fitzgibbon. He will offer courses on the history of Russia for the first time at the OU-L Campus this fall. Dr. Fitzgibbon will also teach the western civilization sequence. An August Ph. D. recipient from Ohio State, Dr. Fitzgibbon has been teaching on the college level since 1969. He also has qualifications that will allow him to teach courses in the Arab-Israeli area sometime in the future.

Mrs. Madeline Scott has received an appointment as administration intern in student programs. She will aid in academic and personal counseling as well as assist the director of student affairs in administrative duties. Mrs. Scott has recently received her master's degree in educational administration from Ohio University. Her undergraduate work was done at Marietta College.

Haig Heads For NATO Job; Leaves Political Fire Behind

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Alexander M. Haig's departure from the White House will take him out of the line of political fire at home and place him in a sensitive military-diplomatic post in Europe.

The White House announced on Monday that Haig will be recalled to active duty in the Army and assigned the twin jobs of commander of 300,000 U.S. troops in Europe and supreme commander of North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces there.

The announcement followed formal approval by the NATO defense planning committee in Brussels.

Haig will succeed retiring Gen. Andrew J. Goodpaster as commander of U.S. troops in Europe on Nov. 1 and as NATO commander on Dec. 15, shortly after his 50th birthday.

Haig spent most of the past 5½ years at the White House, first as a top aide to Henry A. Kissinger, who was then Nixon's national security adviser.

Later, after a brief stint as Army vice chief of staff, Haig succeeded H.R. Haldeman, who resigned in the Watergate affair, as head of the entire White House staff.

During those years, Haig's rise in Army rank was meteoric. He came to the White House as a colonel in 1969, was soon promoted to brigadier general and then to major general in 1972. After only six months as major general, Nixon jumped Haig two ranks to full general.

Nixon's decision to promote Haig to Army vice chief of staff over many senior generals caused resentment in the officer corps. But this irritation ebbed when Haig was recalled to the White House after five months. He then retired from the service.

In the months before Nixon resigned, Haig drew criticism for his sometimes passionate defense of the president.

After Gerald R. Ford became President, there were reports of tension between Ford's staff and Haig and his aides.

Like his predecessors, Haig probably will delegate day-to-day functions as commander of U.S. forces in Europe to his deputy, currently Air Force Gen. George J. Eade, in Stuttgart, Germany.

That will leave Haig free for the demanding job of supreme NATO commander, which experts say requires diplomacy, persuasion and great tact to maintain harmony among the many national military leaders in the alliance.

Kroger Company Sues U.S. Agency

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The Kroger Co. has filed suit in federal court to have indictments against the company and its top officers dismissed because the government failed to comply with the law.

Kroger lawyers charged Monday that U.S. Food and Drug Administration inspectors never notified the company after allegedly discovering rodent matter at a company warehouse in Solon in a January 1973 inspection. A report was required by law, Kroger contended.

The company and the officials have been indicted for shipping contaminated food in interstate commerce.

The government was given until Oct. 7 to respond.

'Wired Agents' Keep Active, Petersen Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The undercover agent knew it was a gamble to wear the tiny hidden microphone to a crucial rendezvous with criminals. If they found the device, he could be dead by morning. It was a risk he was willing to take for important evidence to bring them to trial.

The agent sensed their suspicion as he entered the room. "Take off your clothes," he was told. No time for panic. "Why?" he retorted. "You take off yours, too."

The tough character facing him peeled off his shirt. The agent peeled off his. Neither saw anything suspicious about the other. The charade ended. The microphone, recording every incriminating word, was safe inside the agent's trousers.

That story came not from the annals of television detectives but from Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry E. Petersen who related it to newsmen on Monday. He did not identify the agent or the case.

Such cases are occurring more and more often as federal agents and informers wire themselves for sound to gather evidence in more than 1,000 cases a year, Petersen said.

Petersen disclosed Justice Department statistics for so-called "consensual monitoring" in testimony before the National Wiretap Commission, a group of senators, congressmen and private citizens directed by Congress to recommend legislation controlling electronic surveillance.

The practice has been overlooked previously as most hearings on government surveillance have focused on wiretapping and bugging requiring court warrants for domestic criminal investigations and the attorney general's authorization for national security purposes.

Petersen said a 1971 Supreme Court decision leaves no doubt that investigators need no court authorization to record their own conversations with criminal suspects.

The applicable wiretap statute permits electronic eavesdropping when one party to the conversation consents, he noted.

Petersen said laws restricting this technique "would have a crippling effect on law enforcement efforts and would be a disaster of the greatest magnitude."

Department figures show there were 5,609 cases of such surveillance from Jan. 1, 1969, through August 1974. By contrast, there were only about 900 court-authorized wiretaps and bugs for the same period.

The Justice Department also disclosed that consensual monitoring is regulated by guidelines requiring all federal agencies to obtain approval from Petersen or one of his deputies before engaging in the practice except in emergencies.
